Bilingualism: Language, Bilingual Education and Education by...

Language, bilingualism and education is a key text to understand a powerful, though also contested concept, as enounced by two of the major figures. Translanguaging refers to language production, effective communication, the flexibility of language, and the thought processes behind language use. The term is a result of bilingualism, and is often employed in a pedagogical setting. In China, the term is used to emphasize the use of multilingualism, which includes various languages such as Mandarin, English, and others.

The recent developments in the field of bilingual education can be utilized to create a scenario that is both inclusive and supportive of all students in a...
